

1. Communication unit with a personalising feature being the exposure of a picture on the communication unit characterised in that the communication unit is provided with a holder for holding said releasable picture, and that said holder is provided with a cover part through which the picture is exposed.

2. Communication unit according to claim 1 characterised in that the picture is located on a cover part of the communication unit.

3. Communication unit according to claim 2 characterised in that the feature for exposing the picture includes a picture guide comprising a holding flap of a plastic film that is at one end attached to the cover part of the communication unit, and having an adhesive strip in the middle part of the flap.

4. Communication unit according to claim 3 characterised in that the adhesive strip in the middle part of the flap holds a picture in the same place while in the picture guide.

5. Communication unit according to claim 2 characterised in that the picture guide includes small stickers placed in all four corners of the picture.

6. Communication unit with a personalising feature being the exposure of a personal picture on the communication unit according to claim 2 characterised in that the picture guide includes a plastic film or the like that is attached to the cover part along three sides of the film.

7. Communication unit according to claim 2 characterised in that the picture guide includes an adhesive, transparent film whereon a photo has been placed, that is attached to the cover part.

8. Communication unit according to claim 1 characterised in that the holder is located in the display assembly.

DEPARTMENT OF PATENTS AND TRADE MARKS

9. Communication unit according to claim 8 characterised in that the picture is inserted in said holder, that said picture includes a sheet having at least one picture part and one extractive part, and that the picture part has substantially the same size as the display and the extractable part projects from a slot between the display and a light guide wherein the picture part has been inserted.

10. Communication unit according to claim 8 characterised in that the holder is provided with an insert whereon the picture is mounted and that the insert is inserted in a slot between the display and a light guide.

11. A method for personalising a communication unit characterised in providing a communication unit with a holder and placing or replacing a picture in said holder.

12. A cover part for personalise a communication unit by exposing a picture on the communication unit characterised in that the cover part is provided with a picture guide for holding said releasable picture, and that said picture is provided with a cover part through which the picture is exposed.

13. A cover part according to claim 12 characterised in that the picture guide include a holding flap of a plastic film that is at one end attached to the cover part of the communication unit, and having an adhesive strip in the middle part of the flap.

14. A cover part according to claim 13 characterised in that the adhesive strip in the middle part of the flap holds a picture in the same place while in the picture guide.

DRAFT - DO NOT CITE

15. A cover part according to claim 12 characterised in that the picture guide includes small stickers that are placed in all four corners of the picture.

16. A cover part according to claim 12 characterised in that the picture guide includes a plastic film or the like that is attached to the cover part along three sides of the film.

17. A cover part according to claim 12 characterised in that the picture guide includes an adhesive, transparent film whereon a picture has been placed, that is attached to the cover part.

18. A method for personalise a communication unit characterised in placing a picture in a picture guide on a cover part of the communication unit.

Add
A'